During the recent Red Flag and Particularly Dangerous Situation (PDS) days, confusion/concern about campfires in State Parks has been expressed both on-line and by personal contact from area residents and State Park employees/volunteers.

People seeing message signs on basin entrances and other Red Flag warnings are confused about campfires being allowed in campgrounds within State Parks, and the danger they pose.

I would like to discuss the possibility of “unifying” regulations between area fire agencies and State Parks during high fire risk, high fire danger periods.
